Sweet Life

Cleis Press. P.O. Box 14684, San Francisco, CA 94114. 203 pp. (800) 780-2279, (415) 575-4700. www.cleispress.com.

Twenty-one tales of loving couples seeking the "sweet life" — a world where they can live their deepest fantasies and remain intact. And live life to the fullest they do: on subways, on the phone, with other couples and singles... whichever way they can. This novel should be rather comforting to the many couples who've been seeking something that included both partners in the plotline.

Tickle Your Fancy

Tickle Kitty Press. 3701 Sacramento Street PMB #107, San Francisco, CA 94118. 88 pp. www.ticklekitty.com.

A readable and entertaining book of insight, advice, tips and information about the misunderstood art of female self-loving. As author Sadie Allison points out, a sad number of women do not masturbate either due to guilt or a lack of confidence. Although there is little new information revealed in this collection of vaginal and anal adoration tips, it's presented in a manner that many women who might avoid more overtly feminist titles should feel comfortable with. Nicely illustrated, with information about vibrators, lube, anatomy, the G-spot and an assortment of other useful topics.

TitanMen Pack

Titan Media/Bruno Gmünder. P.O. Box 61 01 04, 10921 Berlin, Germany. info@brunogmuender.com, www.titanmedia.com.

Titan Media is ringing in the new year with a trio of terrific — yet diverse — photo books. First up is the hardbound, spectacular TitanMen book. With photography from underrated photographer Brian Mills (Titan's resident still photographer/director), this great coffee table book is crammed with vibrant photos of Titan's hottest men, ranging from Jason Branch and Victor Racek to Chris Steele and Rick Matthews. Great shots of each guy show what a talented artist Mills is.
